Colour and Vibration –
Rombini by Mutina launched at Clerkenwell Design Week 2016

At Clerkenwell Design Week 2016, Domus launched Rombini, a new porcelain tile collection from global-leading Italian manufacturer Mutina. Exclusive to Domus in the UK, Rombini has been created by French design brothers, Ronan & Erwan Bouroullec and is their second collection for Mutina, following Pico which was launched in 2012.

With an exciting exploration of colour and a sense of ‘vibration’ at its heart, Rombini uses squares, triangles and diamonds in a palette of white, grey, blue, green and red to offer a collection with vast applications.

Carré are 400x400mm slabs produced in a mould made of many tiny embossed diamonds. It is available in two versions: Uni, where colour is evenly distributed throughout the tile and Light, where colour is used to underline the white diamond outlines.

With Losange, the shape of the diamond is larger and in the form of individual mosaic pieces. Made of double charge porcelain stoneware, each piece is installed on 275x275mm sheets.

Thanks to Triangle, the geometry is interpreted in an interesting three-dimensional format to create plays of light and shadow across the surface. The pieces, available in small and large options, create a 3D corrugated wall covering when placed alongside each other, with alternating ridges and grooves.

Notes to Editors:

Domus, the UK's leading tile, mosaic, stone and engineered wood flooring specialist, employs over 150 staff and sells over 1 million sq. metres of ceramic tiles every year. The head office and logistics centre in West Molesey, Surrey stocks over 100,000 sq. metres of tiles and mosaics which are available for next day delivery.

In December 2015, Domus' sister company Surface, London's leading retailer of tiles, mosaic, stone and engineered oak flooring, merged with Domus to become one consolidated brand. This has resulted in a variety of benefits to customers including an extended product portfolio, access to exclusive product launches and events, streamlined customer service, technical support and competitive prices. Since Surface merged with Domus the company now has showrooms in Battersea, Islington and West Molesey, Surrey (Outlet), in addition to the original Domus showrooms in Clerkenwell and London, W1.

Celebrating 51 years in 2015, Domus has established an enviable reputation for the supply of tile, mosaic and stone to prestigious residential and commercial projects such as Embassy Gardens, Battersea Power Station and the new American Embassy in Nine Elms. Award-winning projects include Heathrow Terminal 5 and Wembley Stadium.

Domus supplies 100% FSC certified engineered oak flooring with an exceptional quality collection made from European White Oak from Poland and finished in Italy. Major projects using Domus Wood include Battersea Power Station Phase 1 (850 apartments) and Foyles' flagship bookstore on Charing Cross Road, London. This proposition means architects and developers can now source creative surface solutions for their projects all under one roof covering tiles, mosaic, stone and wood.
